

SPOTLIGHT ON A
VILLAGES AUTHOR

Kade Holley, Forest Ranger Vol. I
by Dan Kincaid,
Village of Dunedin

GENRE: Fiction, outdoor adventures.

Follow Kade Holley on a series of five exciting outdoor adventures, including a plane crash on a remote lake in Minnesota's Superior National Forest, a dangerous forest fire in the piney woods of North Carolina's Piedmont region, an encounter with a group of unruly vandals in Ohio's Wayne National Forest, and an interesting assignment in Washington.

WHAT PROMPTED YOU TO WRITE YOUR BOOK?

I had a desire to share with others some of the exciting things that a forester working with the U.S. Forest Service encounters. Though the books are fiction, they are based loosely on things that happened to me or that I knew of during my forestry career.

WHAT DO YOU HOPE READERS TAKE AWAY FROM YOUR BOOK?

Although many adults are enjoying the books, I try to market to the teenage and young adult audience with the hope of encouraging young people to consider a career in forestry, wildlife management or other related fields. If I've heard it once, I've heard it a thousand times — "I always wanted to be a forest ranger."
