Kade Holley is a Forest Ranger with the U.S. Forest Service. This three-volume set of follows Kade's exciting adventures at national forest locations across the nation. He survives a float plane crash, and deals with armed vandals, a fire, and deer poachers.

Kade leads the effort to provide a Christmas Tree for the U.S. Capitol and has encounters with snakes, turkey vultures, moose, bears, and a 'dive-bombing' scare from a great horned owl. These stories will be especially interesting to Teenage/Young Adult readers.

Dan Kincaid is a retired forester with nearly 40 years experience, mostly with the U.S. Forest Service. For 12 years Kincaid wrote weekly newspaper columns about hunting, fishing, forestry, and natural resources, and served as a sportswriter/columnist in Ohio for 5½ years. He has had over 1,000 columns and stories published and is the author of nine books.
